We utilize these funds for operational costs of the Youth Engagement Advisors including marketing and communications, but the main costs associated with the YEA is providing honorariums to all of our youth consultation participants, as we value their input just as much as any “adult” consultation or survey service. Many organizations benefit from being connected with a discussion group of youth to be able to pitch ideas, chat about potential changes, and more. We are happy to organize this on your behalf as one of our Consult Clients!

The NPYLN YEA will provide 5 meetings throughout your project. We recommend the following structure for your project (up to one year):

Up to two (2) initial meetings with YEA Team and your organization Project Manager/Board of Directors

- This meeting will be to identify a gameplan for the launch of your project and understand what goals and objectives you would like to achieve. It is also a chance to hear more about us and how we will represent youth engagement best practices along the way.

YEA Team + Youth involved in your project (if applicable)

- This meeting will be to understand how the youth would most like to be engaged and also share the engagement best practices with them from both a personal and team perspective. We'd love to get to know the youth that we will be helping you engage with!

Two check-in meetings with your team and/or the youth involved

- These check ins will be to ensure that the project is running smoothly and that the youth feel engaged, respected, and heard. As well, it is to ensure that the project is running how you hoped and to see if there can be areas of improvement between the youth and your organization

Add-Ons

- Youth consultation sessions with NPYLN members to brainstorm how you would like to engage youth/how youth are best engaged in your chosen demographic
- Demographic specific recruitment events (NPYLN provides promotion only)
- YEA can provide a Youth Engagement Best Practices workshop to your organization if desired
